JEAN-CLAUDE RAMOND, the Smoking Dog restaurateur, died of cancer in May. Judith Andrews and Jean Seguin took over, and the First-at-Cypress joint still runs in the neighborhood-hangout style, with inside drinking, outside smoking, much talking and less listening. At least it was Thursday, when patrons checked a new menu that runs from $4 pommes frites to $30 pepper steaks, with most dishes in the mid teens.

Just the place to regain weight you lose working out in Ron Zalko's movie-star gym upstairs.
